

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

In preparing the little volume herewith presented, the compiler indulges the hope that the materials which he has gathered by prolonged and persistent investigation may hereby be rescued from oblivion ; and that others who come after him, and shall feel an interest in this subject may, by its evidence, be saved the toil and inconvenience of research under difficulties.

In the absence of the ancient family Bibles with their records, some of which mention is made in Surrogates' records, yet cannot now be found ; and in consequence of the destruction by fire of nearly all the earliest public records of the town of Flushing prior to 1789, the writer has derived his information, item by item, from various histories, from State, County, and other town records, also from parish registers, monumental inscriptions, etc.

Amid the discouragements met with in the progress of his investigations, he had the good fortune to receive, not only much valuable information, but kind words of encouragement from our esteemed friend, the late Henry Onderdonk, Jr., of Jamaica, L. I., whose loss we mourn, and whose memory we gladly cherish.

Should any one imagine that in his searches, the compiler has been partial to the male members of the family, let me say it has not been intentional. His explanation may be found in the fact that the ladies, by marriage, did not only change their names and places of residence, but some of them thereby seemingly used bridal veils thick enough to prevent recognition.

The attention of readers is invited to the proverbs and quotations printed at the close herewith, as "Way-Marks," and hope, at least, those of the rising generation will give their import more than a passing notice.

EXPLANATIONS FOR READERS.

Under the head of each generation, the names of both the Parents, forming that generation, and of their children, making up the next, are given.

The numbers at the Left, with names in larger type, are those of Parents, or Heads of Families. The other numbers are given to their Children, who in their turn have been placed on that side, where an account may be found of each. See Index.

Letters: b., signifies born; s., single; m., married; d., died.

THE KISSAM FAMILY.

TRACING the early history of this family, in this country, we find its common ancestor was among the early settlers on the North Side of Long Island, having first located at Vlissing or Vlissengen, now Flushing, Queens County, N. Y. Later, with pastoral and agricultural tastes, he settled himself on a farm on the East Side of Madnan's, now Great Neck, in the same county.

Tradition has it, that "three brothers came over together," but facts don't seem to warrant our support of such an opinion, which must have originated from the circumstance of the first John and Susanna having had three sons.

The name of the founder of this family in America, like those of many other families, as the public records show, underwent various changes, attributable, doubtless, in most cases, either to the carelessness or ignorance of the scribe, and was not fixed until near the close of the seventeenth century, so that of "Kissam" is most unquestionably, as we may say, of American origin.

In view of the family's attachment to the English Church, and of the fact that many of its members, at the opening of the Revolutionary war, were holding offices under the British government, to which they had sworn allegiance, a large majority of them sided with the Crown.

As was the case with our fathers in olden time, so their descendants most generally now manifest their preference for and their loyalty to the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Four of her Bishops were embraced within the circle of our family connections, viz.: The Right Rev. Drs. Seabury, Brownell, and [the brothers] Henry Ustic and Benjamin Tredwell Onderdonk.

Having been kindly endowed with the characteristic qualities represented by its ancient armorial shield and crest, such as: diligence, courage, stability and uprightness, this family has contributed, since its first settlement in Queens County, many valuable men to positions of honor and trust, as well as to the legal and medical professions.

FIRST GENERATION.

1.—JOHN KISSAM, of Flushing, L. I., born July, 1644, of English origin, who was the progenitor of this family in America, and then known as John O'casson [or Ockeson as it was written in the "Albany Records," translated from the Dutch, which are indorsed O. W. L., Vol. 2, page 134] had a license from the Provincial Secretary dated July 10th, 1667, for marriage with Susannah, a daughter of William Thorne, of Jamaica, L. I. The same person, under the name of "John Okeson," purchased a farm of John Smith, [Rock] February 4th, 1678, on Great Neck, in the same county, to which he then removed. His sons were:

2. DANIEL.

3. JOHN.

4. THOMAS.

Under date of March 26th, 1695, this same individual conveyed to his eldest son a part of the same farm by deed of "John Kissam and Susannah, his wife, to Daniel Kissam," which is recorded in the office of the County of Queens, in Liber of Conveyances, B. No. 1, p. 283—John d.

Tradition has it too that he was buried in the Corner, on the lower side of the burial plot on his farm, more recently known as that of William Allen, afterwards the "McIllvaine," and later still as the "Ward Farm," on the said Neck, with only a field stone now to mark his grave.

SECOND GENERATION.

2.—DANIEL KISSAM, of Great Neck, L. I., born 1669, also a farmer, was elected a vestryman in St. George's Parish, at Hempstead, L. I., in 1703. He married Elizabeth Coombs, born 1673, died May 12th, 1736. Issue:

- 5. HANNAH.
- 6. DANIEL, 2D,
- 7. ELIZABETH.
- 8. JOSEPH.
- 9. MARTHA.
- 10. LEVINA.

Daniel 1st died December 26th, 1752, and was buried in his family plot on his farm, since owned by William Mott, and lately by William H. Onderdonk [his son-in-law]. In this plot his wife Elizabeth, son Daniel 2d, and his daughter Hannah, were buried also, all of whose headstones, with those of others on which the epitaphs had become illegible from age, have been placed horizontally below the surface beyond the touch of the passing plough. His will was proved in New York city, January 10th, 1753, in Liber of Wills No. 18, page 222, in which he gives his son, Joseph, a family Bible. But where is it now?

3.—JOHN, born on Great Neck, L. I. Married Elizabeth [probably a daughter of Adam] Mott and removed to Freehold, Monmouth County, N. J., where he and his descendants have been known by the names of Ockerson and Ockerson. Of them we have no further trace.

4.—THOMAS, born , of Great Neck, L. I., married
His second wife was Deborah Clayton and his descendants, too, were known by the names of Okerson and Okeson and lived in Hunterdon, County, N. J. He had a son Daniel, born 1714, who married Anglisha Albertson, born 1720. They had a son Nicholas A., born 1757, who married Susan Silverthorne, born 1762, who had a son William, born in Pennsylvania, 1794, and married Jane Black, born 1793, and the last named had a son Nicholas A. Oke-son, [D. D.,] who entered the ministry of the Protestant Episcopal Church and became the rector of St. Paul's Church at Norfolk, Va., where he remained twenty-six years until his death, which occurred on September 16th, 1882. One of the two memorial windows in the chancel of that church is in memory of this beloved and departed Rector. * Some descendants of this branch of the family residing in New Jersey, with Dutch associations, have been disposed, erroneously, to claim their own descent from Netherlanders. Of them, too, we have no further trace.

* See Acts ch 17 & 22

THIRD GENERATION.

5.—HANNAH, † born 1699; married Lewis Hewlett [becoming his second wife.] She died July 3rd, 1750, and was buried in her father's plot on his farm.

6.—DANIEL KISSAM, 2nd, born on Great Neck, L. I. 1701. Married Ann [daughter of Richbell] Mott, who was born 1700 and died September 20th, 1796.

His children were:

21. DEBORAH.

22. DANIEL, Lawyer.

23. SAMUEL, M. D.

The said Deborah was a great-grand-daughter of Hon. Daniel Whitehead, who was among the most prominent citizens in the early settlement of Long Island; and one of the Patentees of the several towns of Huntington, Newtown and Jamaica. Joseph died [Deborah was born and died] Joseph inherited a Family Bible from his father.
Who has it?

9.—MARTHA, born 1708. Married James
Woods, Attorney at Law, of Rye,
N. Y., who practiced in New York city. She left no descendants.

Died 1770. Her will was proved November 13th, 1770.

10.—LEVINA, born 1710. Married,
August 18th, 1731, John Carman.
Baptized at St. George's Church at Hempstead, February 4th, 1728.
Had one daughter:

24. MARTHA CARMAN.

Baptized September 10th, 1732. Of these we have no further trace.

FOURTH GENERATION.

II.—DANIEL 3d, [called "Joseph" in his father's will and Daniel as he was christened since his father's death] of Manhasset, born October 13th, 1726. Vestryman in St. George's Church, 1752-'54. Justice of the Peace under the Crown. Member of Assembly, 1764 to 1775. County Treasurer, 1759-1782. Married April 20th, 1746, Peggy [born 1728, died October 7th, 1813,] daughter of Col. Benjamin Tredwell, [whose sister Phebe was the grandmother of the late Rt. Rev. Bishops Henry U. and Benj. Tredwell Onderdonk.] Daniel, 3rd died August 4th, 1782. His will proved September 28th, 1782, and is recorded in Lib. of Wills 35, page 109. His children were:

25. JOHN, (Major.)

26. PHEBE.

27. ANNE or NANCY, † b. 1755, m. DAVID ALLEN, November 29th, 1773.

31. BENMAMIN TREDWELL.

And four others who died in infancy. His homestead of 330 acres was confiscated, sold at auction and bought in by his widow for £2,000 sterling.

- 17.—DANIEL WHITEHEAD, born February 24th, 1728. Farmer of Manhasset, elected a member of New York Assembly, 1786. Married July 4th, 1776, Ann, [daughter of George Duryea, b. March 16th, 1747, d. February 19th, 1807.] He died March 8th, 1808, buried in Christ's Church yard at Manhasset, L. I. Left no descendants. His will, proved March 19th, 1808, Queens Co., Book C, page 42.

18.—BENJAMIN, born Manhasset, L. I., chose the legal profession, settled in New York City, and became an educated and renowned lawyer. He was a man of sterling qualities and one who commanded universal respect. His deep personal piety was evinced by his lengthy and touching written address, bequeathed to his children, urging them always to be dutiful to God and to worship Him both in spirit and truth; and under all circumstances to be guarded in their actions, as well as upright in their intentions. He was a member of the "Safety Committee of One Hundred," and of the First and Second Provincial Congresses. He married on the 5th October, 1755, Catherine, a daughter of Petrus Rutgers of New York City. Issue:

34. RICHARD SHARP, M. D.

35. ADRIAN, Lawyer.

36. SAMUEL, unmarried.

37. HELENA.

Benjamin died October 25th, 1782.

In "The Life of Gov. John Jay," by his son, Vol. I., pages 17-23, there is some correspondence recorded which took place between Mr. Jay and his law preceptor, relative to some business matters of the latter while he was attending court at Albany. John Jay, Lindley Murray the grammarian, and Cornelius J. Bogert, all of whom have been prominent men, were among those who had been law students in Mr. Kissam's office. Mr. Jay was admitted to the bar in 1769, and entered at once on the practice of law with Mr. Livingston.

In after life, says his son, "He was accustomed to speak of Mr. Benjamin Kissam as one of the best men he ever knew, and one of the best friends he ever had." In the same connection the following has been given a place: "It sometimes happened that Mr. Jay and Mr. Kissam were engaged on opposite sides in the same cause; and on one of these occasions the latter, in closing his argument, pleasantly remarked in court, that he had brought up a bird to pick out his own eyes. "Oh, no;" retorted his opponent, "not to pick out, but to open them a little more."

19.—JOSEPH 2d, of Manhasset, born August 22d, 1731, another of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace, married Oct. 9th, 1752, Mary [born 1725; died June 13th, 1804, a daughter of George and Hannah] Hewlett. Issue:

33.—BENJAMIN, born N. Y. city, August 14th, 1759. Graduated M. D. at Edinburgh, 1783. He began at once, on his return, to practice in his native city, giving his undivided attention to medicine, while his brother, Richard S., evinced a decided taste for surgery as well. As a physician he soon gained for himself an eminent position and a lucrative practice.
He was a Professor of Medicine in Columbia College from 1785 to 1792, when he resigned, and a trustee in the same until his death; also a vestryman in Trinity Church. He married, 1786, Cornelia [b. April 27th, 1767; d. July 1st, 1818, daughter of Isaac] Roosevelt, of New York city. Issue:

- 34.—RICHARD SHARPE, born in New York city, February 20th, 1763. Was graduated M. D. at Edinburgh, 1789. After making a tour of Europe, he began the practice of medicine and surgery in 1791, in his native city. With close application and marked success he soon became thoroughly absorbed in his profession. Was one of the surgical faculty of the New York Hospital, where he rendered valuable service and displayed in his art resources of practical tact and original genius. Dr. Francis, in his "Old New York," says of him that "During more than twenty years, he was the most popular operator the city could boast. He was emulous of surgical glory, and he obtained it," His professional liberality to the afflicted poor was observable as a characteristic of his whole life. He married, in 1807, Mrs. Ann Egbert [nee Cordray, b. April 3d. 1783; d. February 18th, 1822]. His children were:

- 83. RICHARD S., Junior, M. D.

90. ANN ELIZA, † m. Edward Cooke.

Dr. Richard S. died Nov. 14th, 1822.

In Thacher's Medical Biography, page 345, the reader may find the following:

"Richard Sharpe Kissam, born 1763, was a brother of Doctor Benjamin Kissam, and sons of Benjamin Kissam, an eminent practicing lawyer in the city of New York. At an early age Richard S. was sent to the grammar school under the superintendence of the late eminent scholar, Leonard Cutting, at Hempstead, L. I. Here he acquired a relish for the classics, which he continued to enjoy throughout life. On the completion of his elementary education he became a pupil of the late Dr. McKnight, a gentlemen of great professional merit; with him he continued for some time, but subsequently repaired to Europe and became a resident of Edinburgh, at the famous university of which he was matriculated as a student, and continued for the long period of five years.

"Among his contemporaries at this great seat of medical education were Sir James Mackintosh, the late Professor Wistar, Dr. Samuel L. Mitchill, and Thomas Addis Emmet, the late profound jurist and eloquent advocate of New York. Upon receiving the Doctorate in 1789, he published an inaugural dissertation, 'D'Rheumatismæ.' From Edinburgh he repaired to the continent, whence he returned to his native city. In 1791 he commenced the practice of that profession of which for thirty years he was a most distinguished ornament, and his renown as a surgeon was founded upon the promptitude and success of his operations. As a lithotomist he was particularly celebrated.

"Upon the formation of the medical faculty of Columbia College, in 1792, he was appointed Professor of Botany, but declined the honor. For thirty years he was one of the surgeons of that extensive charity, the New York Hospital.

"Notwithstanding some untoward events in his early life, his integrity was beyond the reach of calumny or cavil. To a mind admirably adapted by nature for the practice of the profession, clear, acute and sagacious, he united a firmness of nerve which was equal to the urgency and magnitude of any undertaking. Dr. Kissam arose to the height of celebrity and reputation."

35.—ADRIAN, † born June 19th, 1765. Attorney and Counsellor at Law in New York city. Married, March 11th, 1795, Mrs. Elizabeth Bayard, daughter

- 40.—DANIEL WHITEHEAD, M. D., born at Manhasset, L. I., March 23d, 1763. At an early age, with studious habits, he was placed under the direction of Rev. Leonard Cutting, Rector of St. George's Church at Hempstead, and a graduate of the University of Oxford. With this superior instructor he continued several years, and acquired an intimate acquaintance with the classics, after which he went to New York and received his medical education under the superintendence of Dr. Richard Bayley. He commenced the practice of medicine at Glencove, L. I., 1787, removed to Huntington 1795, and continued to practice in Queens and Suffolk Counties, nearly half a century, with marked ability and success. Was a warden of St. John's Church at Huntington from 1802 to 1839. He married, first, June 26th, 1787, Elizabeth, a daughter of Dr. Benjamin Tredwell, and a neice of the Rt. Rev. Samuel Seabury, D. D., the first Bishop of Connecticut.

Dr. Dan. Whitehead died November 21st, 1839. Phebe, b. April 23d, 1777; d. Nov. 13th, 1861. Both were buried in the yard of St. John's Parish, on the hill, in close proximity to the Church, in which they had loved so well to worship.

Of my beloved and departed mother, be it said: "Many daughters have done virtuously, but thou hast excelled them all."

Subjoined hereto is an obituary notice of my honored father, written for "The Long Islander," by Hon. Silas Wood, his next door neighbor :

IN MEMORIAM.

" Dr. Daniel Whitehead Kissam, whose death we lament, received his medical education under the tuition of Dr. Richard Bayley, of New York city, and was a fellow student with the late Doctors Samuel L. Mitchill and Wright Post.

He commenced practice at [Musquito now] Glen-cove, and after the death of Doctor Sanford, of this village, removed to Huntington. He was distinguished both for a discriminating mind and a sound constitution, and by great industry soon rose to eminence in his profession. He practiced nearly forty years in Huntington, and during the greater part of the time had a greater range of practice than any physician on the island. As a physician he was always attentive, punctual and faithful, and no man had more confidence placed in him, and perhaps no man deserved more than he. He devoted himself wholly to his profession, and became distinguished for his ability and success in every branch, and in one or more departments was, perhaps, unrivalled.

As a citizen he was distinguished for his integrity, prudence and economy, and particularly for bringing up his children in a way calculated to render them good citizens and useful members of society. He was ardently attached to the Episcopal Church of this village, and had been its main supporter for many years in its languishing condition.

Dr. Kissam enjoyed good health until the year 1830, when he was visited with paralysis, which affected his left limbs, and rendered him unable to practice, with which disease he was afflicted until it wore down his constitution and terminated his life."

Joseph died June 28th, 1863. He and both wives were buried in Greenwood Cemetery.

116.—DANIEL WHITEHEAD, JUN'R, born at Huntington, L. I., November 29th, 1792. Having obtained a thorough knowledge of the classics at the Academy in his native village, he repaired to New York and pursued his medical studies under the guidance of the renowned Surgeon there, Dr. Richard Sharpe Kissam, and was graduated M. D. at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1815. Was chosen one of the Fellows of the same in 1828. He at once entered upon a successful practice in the city, and soon took rank among her leading physicians. His skill, evinced in the management of critical cases in his private practice, and in Bellevue Hospital, as well as in his remarkable surgical operations, was both appreciated and acknowledged by his medical associates.

With a slender constitution and a pulmonary tendency, his ambition led him to assume duties and responsibilities which overtaxed his physical strength, and losing his health while yet in the meridian of life and in the midst of usefulness, he transferred his large practice in 1834 to Dr. Richard S. Kissam, Junior, a son of his medical preceptor, to whose practice he himself had succeeded when the father died. Early in the following winter he visited the West Indies with a hope of regaining some of his strength. Failing in this he embarked with his faithful colored valet [Wm. Hathaway] on board the Brig "Neptune," and sailing on his homeward passage died at sea, March 3rd, 1835.

This genial, dignified, and accomplished man was never married. As a citizen he was noted for his integrity, industry, and perseverance; as a physician, for his skill, punctuality and faithfulness, and as a christian, his life was exemplary, his death peaceful, having enjoyed a well grounded hope of a blessed immortality. He was buried in Christ Church-yard at Manhasset, L. I., and left a legacy to the church in his will.

The following is a copy of an obituary notice of Dr. Daniel W. Kissam, Junior, taken from "The Commercial Advertiser":

"In the demise of this accomplished and most benevolent man, our community has lost one of its most honorable members, and the profession one of its brightest ornaments. His complaint was an early and deep-riveted pulmonary affection. From the age of seventeen he felt conscious of the infirmity which fated him to an early grave, yet up to the period of his death, in his forty-third year, he sustained not only a resigned, but a most cheerful spirit. The influence of his disease, he coolly and deliberately resisted with all the ability and power of his profession, and he was often observed to come from the chamber of sickness with the air of a victor, his fine playful eye sparkling with joy at the temporary triumph over an enemy of whose return, however, he always felt but too sure. To life he thus clung, merely as it was valuable to others; and to the very last moment, he retained in all its fulness his fine understanding, thanking his faithful attendant for those cares, which he told him were then to cease forever; and at that moment—that very instant of time—he literally surrendered his spirit to his God.

This brief scene evinced a feeling of placid, heavenly composure, and of exalted resignation, which in itself, is surely the ample reward, even of the best spent and most useful life.

The feelings with which he sympathized in the sufferings of his patients, and the philosophy with which he sustained his own, evinced at once the dignity and excellence of his character. The earliest symptoms of the returning health of his patients, could always be read in his countenance, beaming with intelligence, beauty, and feeling—a depth of feeling and a force of expression which language can never define. Every expression, every act and every feeling of his life, went to sustain the morals and the benevolence of the man, as well as the dignity of the profession. In his consultations he was wary, because it was necessary to be so; he was kind because it was his nature to be so; he was resolute whenever the health or safety of others made anything like a just claim upon his determination, personal or professional; for frankness and honor were things represented in him. It might, indeed, with truth be said that in all the walks of life, he and every generous and honorable feeling went together, just as if they had been incorporated by an act of the Supreme Court of Heaven.

By those to whom he was known, and they are thousands, this little tribute, so well earned, will be acknowledged. With those his loved image will long abide, and to the rising youth of his profession he has bequeathed a rich and precious example, which the good will be most pleased to imitate, and the wisest the most prompt to honor, to vindicate, and to affirm."

289. WILLIAM WILMOT, m. S. Emily Foote.

The following is a copy of a communication concerning him, made to the "Long Islander," by the Rev. Isaac Sherwood, rector of St. John's Church, at Cold Spring Harbor, L. I.:

"The solemn mandate came—the destroyer was inexorable. Gradually but certainly his death shafts were aimed. Wasting disease, the hollow cough, the pallid cheek, told to waiting, anxious, bleeding hearts the fatal truth, the prostration of their fondest hopes. Ere long the suffering victim was released. Absolved from all earthly ties, his immortal spirit winged its way to the mansion of rest. On earth his stay was brief, but during his transient term of years he was esteemed, honored, and loved.

In all the relations of life, as a man, as a husband, a father, a citizen, and a physician, his reputation was unsullied, and as a living member of the Church of Christ an exemplary witness of the truth. Like the sun in his noonday splendor, the specks and blemishes of mortality were unperceived. Summoned to his final change, in a spirit of meekness and tranquility he bid adieu to all things of earth, and like the weary dove soared away to his everlasting rest.

The fountains of grief were then opened and unrestrained emotion sought to rend the sorrowing heart. In soothing accents of tenderness and love, the still small voice of religion uttered divine consolation. She told the stricken mourners to weep no more; to sorrow not as those without hope; but in anticipation of their own approaching hour of dissolution, to consider the blessed assurance: "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee; because he trusteth in Thee."

Dr. William Wilmot Kissam was buried in the plot of Mr. Hewlett, near his first wife, in Christ Church-yard, at Manhasset, L. I.

A beautiful Memorial Window^x has been placed on the south side of the new First Reformed [Dutch] Church, on Seventh Avenue, corner of Carroll Street, in loving memory of George Kissam, who died December 16th, 1889, and was buried in Greenwood Cemetery.

This new church edifice was first opened for divine worship on September 27th, 1891. At the evening service the Rev. Dr. C. L. Wells, of Flatbush, in the course of his address, remarked of the late elder and president, pro tem, of the Consistory as follows: "George Kissam, a man to be remembered, a faithful, devoted servant of the church for Christ's sake, whom he followed. In recalling my acquaintance with him, I am impressed by the memory of his deep interest in, and devoted affection for this church, with which he had been so long identified—it was very dear to him. The symbolism of the design in the Memorial Window that recalls his dignified and genial personality is appropriate and expressive. The water of life, gift of the Christ, when and as He gives Himself. It declares that full freedom of that gospel which our friend loved so much. In nothing did he rejoice more than in the proclamation of welcome to all men to this flowing stream: "Ho! every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters."

Clarence D. Sackett, d. March 8th, 1858.

The following is an extract from the address of Wm. Alfred Jones, Librarian of Columbia College, delivered before the Long Island Historical Society, on November 5th, 1863 :

“To this brief catalogue should, in justice be added the names of two of the worthiest of the sons of Long Island, the admirable brothers, Clarence D. and Grenville A. Sackett, than whom we have never known purer or more honorable characters. They were able and intelligent lawyers, high principled and kindly men, liberal and accomplished gentlemen, filled with all the virtues of a manly character ; devoted to duty and to each other in life, and not separated in death—a rare example of brotherly love and of genuine goodness. As connected, too, with the old and respectable families of Onderdonk, Titus, Kissam, and Tredwell; and united by the ties of birth, and long residence, and partial affection; by political bias and professional pursuits, their names should never be omitted in a list of those of whom this community ought to be proud."

Having brought the family genealogy down as correctly and fully as I can to the beginning of the seventh generation of parents, I must now leave it there, inasmuch as impaired health forbids my persistence in a task, the magnitude of which, even thus far, small as it may seem to others to have been, was not foreseen at the out-set.

There are names and dates still needed to fill blanks, and if any inaccuracies or omissions should be discovered, I trust that under existing circumstances some readers will look upon my shortcomings with leniency.

To one and all who have very kindly contributed such information as they possessed in aid of this work, the author both acknowledges his indebtedness and returns his sincere thanks.

END OF THE SIXTH GENERATION.

We are traveling home to God
In the way the fathers trod:
They are happy now, and we
Soon their happiness shall see.

O God, our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come,
Be thou our guard while life shall last,
And our eternal home.

P. E. Hymnal.

WAY MARKS.

"Diligence is the mother of good fortune."

"He does much who does a little well."

"God gives every bird its food, but does not throw it into the nest."

"The secret of life is not to do what one likes, but to try and like what one has to do."

"The habit of being always employed is a great safeguard through life, and is essential to the culture of every virtue."

"Prayer should be the key of the day, and the lock of the night."

"The best and most important part of a man's education is that which he gives himself."

"You cannot dream yourself into a character, you must hammer and forge yourself one."—FROUDE.

"Learning refines and elevates the mind."

"Virtue is the only true nobility."

"It requires a definite aim to make a hit in life."

"He that walks uprightly, walks surely."

"Keep yourself innocent if you would be happy."

"Never speak evil of any one."

"Of all crafts an honest man is the master craft."

"Actions, looks, words, steps, form the alphabet by which you spell character."—LAVATER.

"No man is born into the world whose work is not born with him ; there is always work and tools to work withal for those who will."

"Reckless youth makes rueful age."

"There are three classes of men : the retrograde, the stationary, and the progressive."—LAVATER.

"Know thyself."—CHILO.

"Economy is the parent of integrity, of liberty, and of ease, and the sister of temperance, of cheerfulness, and of health. Profuseness, on the other hand, is a cruel and crafty demon that generally involves her followers in dependence and debt."

"Adversity is the test of principle. Without it a man hardly knows whether he is honest or not."—H. FIELDING.

"Life would be too smooth if it had no rubs in it."

"Envy shooteth at another and wounds itself."

Richelieu used to say whenever he heard much evil spoken of a person, "I must know that man, there certainly must be merit in him, or they would not attack him so ferociously."

"Nothing is to be compared for value with goodness ; riches, honor, power, pleasure, learning, the whole world and all in it, are not worth having in comparison with being good."

"Good deeds will shine as the stars of Heaven."

"The soul is the life of the body, faith is the life of the soul, and Christ is the life of faith."—FLAVEL.

"A firm faith is the best divinity; a good life the best philosophy; a clear conscience the best law; honesty the best policy, and temperance the best physic."

"A man should never be ashamed to own that he has been in the wrong, which is but saying, in other words, that he is wiser to-day than he was yesterday."—POPE.

"Aim to be in all things acceptable to God, and you need trouble yourself but little about the opinions of men."

"Enjoyment stops where indolence begins."—
POLLOCK.

"Duties are ours ; events are God's.—CECIL.

"Remedies oft in ourselves do lie."—SHAKESPEARE.

"Be there a will, and wisdom finds a way."—
CRABBE.

"Every man should endeavor to ornament his profession."—BACON.

"Act well your part, there all the honor lies."— POPE.

"The remembrance of a well-spent life is sweet."

"To the Christian death's dark portal is the golden gate of life."

"Every hour that fleets so slowly away,
Has its task to do or bear;
Luminous the crown and holy,
When each gem is set with care."

"The sublimity of wisdom is to do those things living, which are to be desired when dying."— JOHNSON.
